

Facilitating a Mentor Group - Facilitator Questions

Q: You are preparing to leave campus for the Saturday City Exploration Day. All of your mentor group students except one are present at the bus pickup location 10 minutes before departure time as instructed. How do you go about locating the student for an on-time departure?

- A: Since there is still some time before departure, text the student first via Reach to ask them where they are and reconfirm the departure time and that they need to be at the bus pickup location now. If the student does not respond after a few minutes, give them a call via your personal phone. If the student is not picking up, try other ways of finding the student, such as seeing if their roommate is present and knows where they are.
- If you need to leave your group to go find the student in the dorms, leave your group with another mentor who can ensure that we don't lose anyone.
 - Q: When you have the student and are getting on the bus, do you need to do another headcount?
 - A: Yes! Do a final count of your mentor group to make sure you are not missing anyone. Someone may have gone to the bathroom when you were not there. Always do a final head count before leaving a location.
