

Managing Sickness on Program

The bottom line:

- If a student is experiencing ANY symptoms that are so intense that they are unable to actively participate in the day's activities, they must stay back and rest, and a staff member will be appointed to stay behind to check in with that student consistently throughout the day.
 - Consider assigning a staff member who needs extra rest.
 - Record keeping - write down time of each check-in
 - Check in - every hour. Student should never go 2 hours without seeing a staff member.
 - Staff should connect with student via Reach
- Case by case: we may determine it is best to move a student to a room by themselves; if it is possible.
- By taking this step, we will minimize the group's exposure to this sickness.
