

Scenario

During an evening in the residence hall, a mentor walks past a student room and smells what they believe could be vape or smoke. When they knock, the students open the door and say, “We’re not doing anything.”

Inside the room, no one is actively using anything, but one student seems nervous and another says, “Someone had something earlier, but it’s gone now.” A third student in the room says they weren’t involved but stayed because they “didn’t want to be rude.”

Later, another student tells a mentor that someone in that room may have brought a vape from home.
